Update on visits permitted for caregivers

As you know, on the recommendation of public health authorities, the premier announced that, starting Thursday, the government will permit certain recognized caregivers to care for a loved one.

However, we must take the time to make sure that we are able to meet all of the conditions required by Public Health and to prepare accordingly. This means that we will not be ready to receive caregivers this week.

Above all, we must ensure the safety of our residents and employees.

We must also be sure to have the necessary personal protective equipment on hand for caregivers.

We ask that you please be patient. We will contact you as soon as everything has been organized.

We thank you for your understanding in supporting our mission to provide a safe environment for our residents.
